How Do They Find the Way?

A few weeks ago an account was given of a dog that had been carried seven hundred miles somewhere at the West, but not liking the place, alone, guided by a faculty quite unknown to man, he footed his way to his old loved home without making inquiries, consulting a guide-board or travelling out of the way, at the rate of nearly a hundred miles each day.

An old horse, purchased of a farmer in Vermont many years since, was shipped at Seabrook, Conn., with others, to the West Indies. for grinding cane. A storm occurred in Long Island Sound, the deck horses were washed overboard and supposed to have been lost. The old Vermonter, however, reached land in the darkness of a stormy night, and finally was found standing at the barn door of his old home. The horse had never been far from the town till sold, therefore could not have been familiar with the way.

Horses, mules, dogs, cats, and all the mi grating birds, find there way as unerringly as the carrier pigeon does; but how they do it is beyond our ken. Some imagined birds see telescopically one or two hundred miles when high in the air, and over the tops of the mountains. But the theory throws no light upon the movements of the mule that found his home in Brazil, hundreds of miles over a region where man could hardly move, having neither a path to follow nor a companion to lead the way. Science, therefore, has something more to do to clear up this mystery.

A writer in the Quarterly Review advances the theory that "they have a certain sense of the magnetic currents, sufficing to afford them a sort of internal mariner's compass marking the direction in which they travel. We know that the magnetic currents affect the needle, and the hypothesis that they may also effect living frames with special organizations seems no way incredible; while the fact that a dog, who can field his own way for a hundred miles in the open country, may lose it in five hundred yards in a town, seems to point to the multitude of streets turning at right angles as the cause of confusion to a sense which simply indicates a straight direction."

PAUL MORPHY.-Of Paul Morphy, the great chess-player, a New Orleans letter says: called to our stock of REFRIGERATORS, "He has turned out no lawyer—not even a commission merchant! He is at present doing nothing. Once in a while the solitary athlete can be induced to show that his power is only in abeyance. I saw him at a private seance, just before I left, beat simultaneously, in two and three-quarter hours, sixteen of the most accomplished amateurs in New Orleans. His strength has never been fully tested, and will probably never be fully developed. Paul Morphy is poor. Unlike a Yankee, he finds it impossible to live on his talent. Opportunities there are in abundance—rich offers for public LIVERPOOL SALT exhibitions of himself as delicate as those grasped at by men who pretend to more honor. He steadfastly refuses them. He was morbidly sensitive to misjudgment, lest he be taken for one who 'travels on his muscle,' and, on all his journeys, defrayed his own expenses, and always played in the presence only of select companies, to which no money could gain access. There seems to me to be a certain attraction in this fine delicacy, which one would not encounter elsewhere among us, than in the half foreign society of New Orleans, amid which Mr. Morphy was reared. It is dearer to hun than wealth or renown, or the strange gift by which he must get his daily bread or go without it.

A GOOD NATURED EX-KING.-The best natured fellow we have heard of for a long time is Amadeus, after his abdication. Arriving in Portugal he abandoned himself to royal sports and simple recreations with all the zest of a boy out of school. He declared that he took counsel with nobody regarding his abdication, and didn't even tell his wife till it was too late to retract, knowing that she would "make arow." He found that his own fortune was insufficient to preet his expenses, and that the Queen was running in debt, notwithstanding her royal dower of $200,000 a year. The Spanish Treasury wasn't flush, and the royal fair had to spend no small sum in quieting ariists and other troublesome people. Then, he says, the insurance companies demanded remiums on their lives, and the parents never aft their children without kissing them fare-well. When he got ready to pack he sent for a Spanish officer to observe that they took away nothing that had been bought in Madrid, even with their own money. Another officer was entrusted with the settlement of all bills, down to the small private pensions. Amadeus says it all seems now like a horrid nightmare.

POLITENESS OF GREAT MEN. -The geatest men in the world have been noted for their politeness. Indeed, mainly to their popular manners, which induced the people whom they pleased to give them an opportunity to show their power.

Many years ago, the errand boy employed by a put lishing house in a great city was sent to procure from Edward Everett, the proof-sheets of a book which he had been examining. The loy entered in fear and trembling the vast library. ted from floor to ceiling with books. He stood in awe of this famous man, and dreaded to meet him. But Mr. Everett, turning from e desk where he was writing, received the with re-assuring courtesy, bade him sit wa, chatted kindly as he looked for the proof sheets, and asked, "shall I put a paper round them for you?" as politely as if his visitor were the President. The boy departed in a very internable state of mind; he had been raised his esteem by Mr. Everett's kindness, and has never forgotten the lesson it taught him. RUMBLERS AT NEWSPAPERS. - Horace elev, in speaking of grumblers at newspa-

Cloths, Cassimeres, Cottonades, Ladies Dress. ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of muscular Pow-er, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Func-tions, General Debility, Symtoms of Consump-MENTALLY .- The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Con-fusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced. Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of Consumption. YOUNG MEN Who have injured themselves by a certain practice, already described, a habit frequently learned from evil companions or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply im-What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyment of life by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in pernicious habits. MARRIAGE Reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another is blighted with our own. DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE. When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an

this paintitudes of shame or dread of discovery de-ters him from applying to those who, from edu-cation and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of the horrid disease makes their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms. blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to that undiscovered country "from whence no traveller returns."

It is a meiancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of ignorant or unskilful PRE-TENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy sufferer month after month taking their naxious or incipations corresponded and instead of being reinjurious compounds, and instead of being re stored to a renewal of Life, Vigor and Happiness in despair leaves him with ruined Health to sigh over his galling disappointment.
